Amarex Clinical Research Achieves Food Donor Hall of Fame Status in Nourish Now's 2017 Food Drive

Germantown, MD, USA – Amarex Clinical Research was one of six companies to receive "Food Donor Hall of Fame Runner Up" status for donating to Nourish Now's 2017 Annual Thanksgiving Food Drive. During the month of November, Amarex employees donated over 1,500 non-perishable food items to help feed over 5,000 hungry neighbors in the Greater Washington DC area. Amarex's donations were used in Nourish Now's 4th annual Thanksgiving Tuesday Dinner and by volunteers to create nearly 14,000 WHC Hunger Project meals.

Amarex President and CEO, Dr. Kazem Kazempour, was pleased to learn that, with all of the contributions that Nourish Now receives, Amarex was listed as a high donation company. Dr. Kazempour commented that "Amarex Clinical Research has received high praises and awards in biotechnology and from large companies such as the FDA or NIH, but we are always pleased to help out on a local and individual level, particularly when each Amarex employee is able to enjoy their own participation and contribution. This is a success that Amarex employees have earned and greatly deserve."

Nourish Now is a 501(c)3 non-profit based in Rockville, Maryland that collects food donations from restaurants, caterers, bakeries, grocery stores and other providers. Food donations are distributed directly to those in need, housing and social service agencies, religious institutions and other organizations that assist in feeding the hungry.
